

The Parker Lee Lecture Series presents

NED O'GORMAN & KEVIN HAMILTON

How to Watch a Thermonuclear Blast

Tuesday, March 26th
6pm, New Cabell Hall 323

NED O'GORMAN, Professor in the Department of Communication at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign, works at the intersections of the history of rhetoric, media studies, and political thought, with special interest in the crisis and tensions of modernity, especially in the Cold War. KEVIN HAMILTON, Professor in the School of Art & Design at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign, produces artworks, archives, and scholarship on such subjects as race and space, public memory, history of technology, and state violence. In 2018 HAMILTON and O'GORMAN published Lookout America!: The Secret Hollywood Studio at the Heart of the Cold War (Dartmouth).
