

Internships at Newswise

Newswise provides journalists with the latest news and experts in science, medicine, social sciences, and business. We work closely with premier international research institutions so they can effectively communicate the valuable work and innovations happening everyday.

As an intern at Newswise, you will perform tasks that assist in the communication and growth of subscribers and members and maintain the daily processes of news distribution. You will learn about the many facets that come together to effectively deliver news to journalists around the world. This position is paid at an hourly rate. There are full time and part time positions available.

To apply for an internship at Newswise, send your resume and a one minute video about yourself to debbiew@newswise.com.